Starbucks—Shanghai, China

"We taught conversational English to Chinese English teachers in Sanya, China for six weeks this summer. Before flying back to the USA, we did some sightseeing in Shanghai with one of our Chinese English teachers from our previous summer in Baotou, China. It was great to find a familiar American Starbucks.

"After introducing our friend Alna to the enjoyment of a Grande Low-fat Latte, I decided to do a Phoon in front of the Starbucks. I had second thoughts when I saw a couple staring at me through the glass, but I still went for it.

"Starbucks does not allow cameras inside. (Perhaps they don't want China to duplicate the look and feel? But we did see a Chinese knock-off there: Sunbucks!)" --Joanne
